The Keynote Address Topic

What makes a hybrid or online class a more effective teaching and learning experience? What are some of the well-established best practices and quality standards that faculty might adopt as they design and teach courses and continue to develop their hybrid and online teaching skills? Susan Ko, Academic Faculty Development Director at the School of Professional Studies will highlight some best practices for designing, facilitating, and managing hybrid and online classes and discuss how faculty might create a more engaging and interactive learning environment for their 21st century students.
