

Mid-Manhattan Library

presents

Story Time for Grown-Ups

Love a good story?

Sit back and relax as we read you a story or two.

April 2014

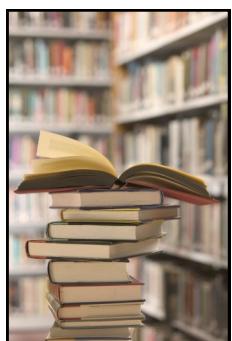

Stories about Libraries and Librarians

Wednesday, April 2, 1:00 pm

Monday, April 7, 7:00 pm

Ed Has His Mind Improved by Walter R. Brooks

Exchange by Ray Bradbury

Wednesday, April 16, 1:00 pm

Monday, April 21, 7:00 pm

QL 696.C9 by Anthony Boucher

All readings will take place on the 1st floor Room 101

MID-MANHATTAN LIBRARY

455 FIFTH AVENUE | NEW YORK, NY | 10016

212-340-0837

 midmanhattanlibrary

 @midmanhattanlib

 This branch is fully accessible to wheelchairs

New York Public Library

Wednesday, April 2, 1:00 pm

Monday, April 7, 7:00 pm

Ed Has His Mind Improved by Walter R. Brooks

It was bad enough when Wilbur Pope's horse Ed started talking, but then he learned to read. Imagine what happens when Ed decides to visit the library and meets the librarian, Miss Sigsbee.

Exchange by Ray Bradbury

Miss Adams had already closed the library, but the young man in uniform pleaded to get in. He was on his way to LA, soon to be shipped overseas. He stopped by his hometown because he might never get another chance to see familiar faces and places.

Wednesday, April 16, 1:00 pm

Monday, April 21, 7:00 pm

QL 696.C9 by Anthony Boucher

Detective MacDonald knows that Miss Benson, the librarian, was murdered by one of the four people who were in the library at the time, but which one? And why did Miss Benson have the F.B.I. phone number on her desk? The only clue is what she was typing when she was killed—a list of books to be replaced.

All programs are FREE and subject to last minute change or cancellation.

This branch is fully accessible to wheelchairs