

Teaching Matters 2022 Summer Series

Creating Inclusive Classrooms

Thursdays in June from 1:30 - 3:00 pm

In 2021 the CUNY Innovative Teaching Academy kicked off a new and virtual teaching workshop series. Teaching Matters is a free, monthly, summit of CUNY faculty and staff devoted to sharing innovative teaching strategies and student-centered learning methods. Each gathering includes a focused and engaged peer-to-peer workshop and a few practical teaching tips that can be used in any classroom.

June 2:

Fundamentals of Mindfulness and Trauma

Chia-Ti Chu, Senior Trainer & Teacher (Lineage Project)

June 9:

Supporting LGBTQIA+ and Questioning Students

Yaari Felber-Seligman, David Lohman, Jake Nill (City College)

June 16:

Adult Learners, Andragogy, and Active Learning

Vicki Caruana, Matthew Lewis (School of Professional Studies)

June 23:

Looking, Close and Slow: Dialogic Inquiry as a Cross-Cutting Curricular Approach

Caitlin Henningsen (The Frick Collection)

June 30:

Ableism and Access: Removing Barriers and Building Equity in CUNY Classrooms
